

I noticed within a month that the cases of Digital Dermatitis were significantly reduced. In fact, they were almost completely gone.

Imagine that Digital Dermatitis was no longer a problem

You know that healthy cows are more productive and require less attention. And you also know that mobility plays a huge role in your cows' health. So you don't want any hassle with their hooves. Yet you still have to deal with this issue. That's why Lely has developed the Meteor hoof health approach.

Bright farming is yours by choice.

Lely Meteor is also available as a
Lely Astronaut Hoof Health choice.

Focus on all animals and all factors

The Lely Meteor is the first solution on the market that addresses hoof disorders from A to Z. It focuses not only on lactating cows but also on young stock and dry cows. In addition, this approach also addresses all factors that affect hoof health. From floor to cubicle and from roughage to management.

Recognizing and treating hoof disorders

During the first few weeks the Meteor approach concentrates on identifying and treating hoof disorders in all animal groups. Hoof health increases significantly in a short period of time thanks to the zero tolerance policy. After that, the focus turns to preventive treatments to ensure that you keep their hooves healthy.

Prevention in the most efficient way

In short, the Meteor approach first concentrates on identifying and treating hoof disorders and then on regular preventive treatments. For example, by using the automatic sprayer that is incorporated into the Lely Astronaut milking robot. This sprayer cleans the hooves before each milking session and sprays them afterwards with a caring product. Because ultimately, prevention is better than cure.

Lely introduces: the Meteor hoof health approach

A total approach that allows you to reduce all cases of hygiene-related hoof disorders and makes them manageable.
